UN Secretary-General Ban Ki-Moon lauds Kenya's reform efforts

March 31, 2011

UN Secretary-General Ban Ki-Moon today commended the efforts of the Kenyan government to operationalize the country's new Constitution.

The Secretary-General praised the Kenyan government especially for the establishment of the Judicial Service Commission that is working towards major reforms in the judiciary system.

The Secretary-General also thanked President Kibaki, the government and the people of Kenya for the strong support they have extended to the UN's operations in Nairobi, which has resulted in upgrading the offices' rating from Category C to B.

Mr. Ban Ki-Moon is visiting Kenya to preside over a meeting of the United Nations Systems Chief Executives Board and to open the new United Nations Environment Program Headquarters in Nairobi.

Kenya is using the latest testing technology to combat tuberculosis.

- In June 2011, Kenya will debut a new computer-enabled tuberculosis (TB) test that confirms results 600 times faster than current technology. Instead of waiting six weeks for test results, patients can find out if they are TB-positive in less than two hours.
- Endorsed by the World Health Organization (WHO), the test can also detect Multi-Drug Resistant Tuberculosis (MDR-TB), helping to ensure that patients receive proper treatment.
- The first testing kits will be available at Médecins Sans Frontières (MSF) clinics in Kibera, Homa Bay and Mathare. The government plans to bring in more testing machines before the end of the year.
